AdMeTech provides international leadership and conducts ground-breaking programs in research and education for facilitated development of accurate diagnostic tools for early detection and minimally-invasive treatment of prostate cancer to:

- Save lives, improve quality of life in millions of men, and reduce billions of dollars in health care costs, and
- End the era of blind prostate cancer care and create the future of image-guided, least invasive, and precisely targeted diagnosis and treatment that can be performed in outpatient clinics with minimal patient discomfort, complications, and costs.

Some info:

A man dies every 19 minutes, even though prostate cancer can be cured when detected early.

Prostate cancer is the most common (major) cancer in the United States and the second most lethal cancer in men. African American men are 60% more likely to be stricken and 2.5 times more likely to die.

While prostate cancer is more common than breast cancer, national investment in prostate cancer research lags behind that of breast cancer and men do not have accurate diagnostic tools akin to life-saving mammograms

Blind patient care reduces quality of life in millions of men and adds billions of dollars in health care costs.
